

PORTAL 2017: capturing 24 hours of coastal living through your lens

DEVONPORT REGIONAL GALLERY, 6-28 MAY 2017

Kerry Forrest, 5.50, Burnie

Lissie Rustage, 6.33, Doctors Rocks
Waiting for the sun to rise over the farm with Oscar and Bella

Chris Brier-Mills, Quoiba
Sunrise on the Mersey River from Quoiba, looking towards East Devonport.

Ashleigh Butler, 8.30, Devonport
Architecture over Jetty
Hopeful Promise: This image captures a moment that reflects my journey and relationship to the town of Devonport that I now call my home. I am always finding something new, interesting and beautiful in this town that inspires me both personally and artistically to see the world in new ways and stay positive as there is always a hopeful promise of sunshine.

Ian Foster, 7.00, Ulverstone
Ulverstone wharf, showing the Leven River and glowing Ulverstone bridge before the rains came.

Craig Soward, 8.50, Forthside
My photo is of a cropping scene, with green beans in the foreground and carrots in the distance, a reflection on the importance of agriculture along the North-West Coast.

Judy O'Neil, Devonport
Spirit in the Mist
This photo depicts the misty, cool temperatures of the day, whilst the passengers on board The Spirit were enjoying the cosy warmth of a delightful interior.

Stephanie Tuckett, 8.56, Hawley Beach
The photo portrays our changing vista from minute to minute displaying the sun's ability to be a natural spotlight.

Kelly Slater, 8.05, Railton
Manning the Fire Brigade Easter Raffle Stall
Railton is busy place first thing Saturday morning, the local volunteer fire officers, get to catch up for a chin wag and sell a few raffle tickets to the market goes and newspaper buyers outside the Post Office.

Dana Sallese, 10.00, Acacia Hills
My 5-year-old daughter Gabi getting ready for dance class, and then a 1st Birthday party (she was very excited)!

Shane Warren, 9.00, East Devonport
Shades of Grey
We were waiting for the Spirit to depart as we had friends on board.

Ineke Davis, 9.00, Ambleside
Beautiful Flower

Katerina Papas, 10.30, Devonport
Getting kids off technology can be difficult, even more so on a grey, rainy day!

Georgie McKie, 14.00, Spreyton
Watching the Davis Cup doubles match

Sue Slatter, 11.30, Rocky Cape
Anniversary Bay looking back towards Smithton
We had just stopped walking and my brother Richard needed a drink. Six of us did a circuit walk from Sisters Beach to Anniversary Bay and back. The weather was wonderful for walking but the rain started about 5 minutes after this photo was taken.

Madeline Aulich, 10.00, Lilloo
Perceptive
Looking to the world from the inside out, rather than the outside looking in.

Jasmine Peterson, 9.00, Devonport

Cory Clarke, 12:35, Latrobe
Splash
Our children appear so innocent, so curious yet so small, their hearts and minds are full of wonder as they view our world so tall. A family adventure to Anvers bringing so much joy, from chocolate tasting, bouncing train and playing in the rain.

Judi Rustage, 11.53 Wynyard
Filling up for the weekend
One of those mundane things we all need to remember.

Louise Murfet, 11.30, Spreyton
Inside/ Outside, Reflection of an Autumn Day.

Josh Arnott, 11.30, Burnie
It was a really moody day so I decided to amplify this feeling using my Canon DSLR in conjunction with a soft grad ND filter.

Cheryl Sims, 13.00, Tarleton
Occupied
A local workshop, linocut, enjoyed by all who attended

Marnie Horton, 13.30, Hellyer Gorge
Walking Through the Beginnings of Autumn

Lucy Milne, 13.00, Devonport
Afternoon Snuggles before work

Lesley Proctor, Ambleside
A bicycle from the TROLL Shop at Spreyton, given to me by my husband to be used as a piece of garden art.

Sue Horton, 13.30, Forth
This is my two-year-old grandson Alex wanting to play nerf guns with his big brothers. He is still in his pyjamas as he didn't want to miss too much of the action.

Tammy Milne, 13.09, Devonport
Home
A busy morning
Rainy day

Wendy Cameron, 14.00, Don
Don walking track. I love the tea trees!

Sophia Brown, 14.00, Devonport
A rainbow over the Mersey I saw on the way home from ballet

Vicki Hefferon, 13.48, Inglis River

Vicki Griffiths, 14.00, Ulverstone
At the Ulverstone Wharf, in between showers, my daughter Vienna is taking our border collie for a walk on the way to Eco Fest.

Leanne Stott, 14.12, Wynyard
Catholic Church Wynyard

Rachel Carden, 14.53, Penguin
Relaxation
On rainy days my husband and I like to go to our favourite coffee shop in Penguin; Renaissance. There we sit in the glass house area listening to the rain as we drink coffee and read books. To us, this is complete relaxation.

Ruby Madeleine Quarry, 15.00, Don Heads
My friend and I found a little orange starfish under some rocks on our walk at Don Heads.

Barbara Lea, 15.00, Squeaking Point
Man with his boat and a beautiful rainbow
I was talking to a man with his boat at Squeaking Point Jetty. He was waiting for the props he had ordered to get the boat going so he could take it to Queensland. It started to rain so he got his umbrella out and then the sun came out and the glorious rainbow.

Kristin Johnson, 13.45, Burnie
It was raining and I was returning home. I saw a car sitting awkwardly in the middle of the road.

Elizabeth Ettlin, 14.52, Smithton
Cattle Yards in the Back Paddock

Peggy Hanlon, 15.35, Squeaking Point
Pumpkins in My Garden
This photo was taken while attending my Tasmanian native garden, where this self-sown pumpkin plant has been growing amongst some quirky garden ornaments.

Julie Argent, 15.15, Devonport
My daughter Tess has designed a dress. After cutting out her own pattern, and measuring/cutting the fabric, she is now sewing the fabric.

Rodney Stagg, Don
The Devonport Lapidary Club has a workshop every Saturday morning which I usually attend and polish gemstones. The Agates are small chips and broken pieces but they still polish up very nicely.

Ella Morse 15:05, Latrobe

Setina Dale, 18.07, Port Sorell
Before the Storm
The jetty is a popular fishing spot. The dark and moody clouds are what I was attracted to on the day. I love a good storm, but this evening it was just the contrast and perception of a moody day.

Grant Wells, 16.15, Burnie
A work in progress. The end of day clean up.

Lars Brown, 17.00, Squeaking Point
Our two dogs on the mudflats

Deb Clune, 15.20, Port Sorell
Outside with the Dogs

Richard Colbeck, Devonport
Remnants of Summer
Lunch at Drift.

Heather Warner, 17.00, Forth
Cattle raised by my family on the farm I grew up on, 60 years on.

Annie Thurlow, 17.00, Devonport
A busy day on the Mersey
I had just got in my car to drive home when I heard a toot and there was the British Navigator departing Devonport along with the pilot boat and a tug.

Jackson Matthews, 17.43, Devils Gate Dam
I decided to go on an adventure on some back roads towards Lower Barrington, when this backdrop caught my eye. I couldn't drive past it, so I pulled over and ran across to the other side of the road. I'm big on car photography I had to have mine in there, I think it adds to the shot as it's the reason I was out there in the first place.

Hannah Free, 17.30, Coles Beach
I must get to the sea; mandatory beach visits no matter the temperature.

Cheryl Anne Purton, 16.00, North Motton
Harry, our beautiful kelpie

Brent Scales, 18.00, Burnie
Having a quick break before the last part of our trip home to Smithton.

Alayna Whiteside, 17.30, Wynyard

Michelle Miller, 17.40, Latrobe
Catching the last of the setting sun coming down the main street of Latrobe.

Marli Capriles, 18.30, East Devonport

Sunset at the Beach

Starting a new life living in Devonport, I'm a young woman from Venezuela, who rescued a beautiful naughty dog from the kennel, where every day we enjoy walking and playing at the beach together.

Jo Johnstone, 17.43, Latrobe

Sunset

We took the opportunity to go for a walk when the rain stopped around sunset and it was well worth it. The sky was a palette of colour - so beautiful.

Eunice Atkins, 18.04, Temma

Fiery clouds as the sun dips into sea

Rodney Morse, 18.00, Horse Head Creek

Looking back towards Kelcey Tier

Louise Daniels, 18.28, Ulverstone

I was taking a break from painting and am lucky to have this view from my studio. It is the view across Ulverstone to the Dial Range with the setting sun. The town and vehicle lights are on. I enjoy looking out at this time of day.

Ian Bonde, Ulverstone

Cul-de-sac

After a wet autumn day, the clouds receded to reveal yet another beautiful Central Coast sunset.

Geoff Blackburn, 19.30, Gawler

Gawler Store after sun-set

During the day, the Gawler store seems very much part of its surroundings;

At night -

it becomes more like a beacon, to locals, and for those that pass by.

Lilly Jenkins, 21.53, Latrobe

The street light was shining on the wet ground and the raindrops on my lens were creating orbs in the photographs.
